Introduction

In July we concentrated on the four historical "Great Britons". This month, in contrast, we devote much of our space to a more contemporary figure, Sir Winston Churchill, arguably the greatest Briton of our times. Many memories of his long life will be revived by the stamps and associated material issued to celebrate the centenary of his birth.

Next month's Bulletin will contain an article by Tony de Righi on the earlier Churchill stamps and a special Churchill feature which will form the background notes which so many readers find useful when writing up their collections.

Recent and Forthcoming Changes

Registered Envelopes

- 2 New registered envelopes G, H and K were put on sale at the Bureau and philatelic counters on 31 July. They have a 29½p
- 2 surface printed (letterpress) stamp – 25p registration fee and 4½p first class postage. The G, H and K registered envelopes are priced at 31p, 31½p and 33½p respectively.
- 4 These new prices are part of the recent tariff increases announced by the Post Office.

New Letter-cards

- 6 New, ready-stamped letter-cards for first-class post (with a 4½p stamp and double-phosphor bar for machine handling) went on sale from the Bureau and philatelic counters on 28 August. The first-class stamped letter-cards are priced at 5½p each or 52½p for a packet of 10.

New 6½p Definitive Stamp

In line with the recent changes in other low value definitives, the 6½p stamp has been issued on heavier paper than previously used for low value definitives, and with polyvinyl/dextrin adhesive.

Commemorative Cover for London Airport

From 1 October 1974 a pictorial cover will be on sale to visitors and passengers at Heathrow Airport, London. It depicts the control tower as well as other aspects of the bustle and activity of this famous airport.

The covers will be available at the PO counters in each of the three Heathrow terminals. They may be obtained ready serviced with the most recent special stamp issue of the British Post Office, and will also be available unstamped for 7p each.

A special handstamp reading "Heathrow Airport London" and depicting a jet in flight will be applied. Items for reposting should be sent under cover to the Head Postmaster, Hounslow.

XV: Two Rare Varieties of the Sixpenny Embossed

In two earlier Philatelic Bulletin articles (August and September 1972) I told the story of Britain's short-lived experiment with embossed adhesive stamps between 1847 and 1855. One of the three stamps concerned was the sixpenny mauve which was first issued in March 1854. Among the many fine covers in the R M Phillips collection showing this stamp in use are the two illustrated, which are by any standards most unusual.

The first, a registered cover from Taunton to Modbury (in Devon) in September 1855, bears (as well as a Penny Red) a sixpenny which is pin-perforated and well tied to the envelope. The very few recorded examples of this private perforation all come from Taunton during 1855 (see Bulletin Vol 9 No 1, pp 6-7, for an account of other examples of unofficial perforations). One may reasonably speculate that some user, probably a business or a professional man, had occasion to send many registered letters, the fee for which was 6d, and had a stock of the embossed perforated for convenience.

The second cover bears a bisected sixpenny to pay a 3d rate (made up of a double postage rate plus one penny late fee). This is confirmed by the TOO LATE mark and a PO inspector's initials alongside the stamp. Nothing is known as to why it was necessary to use the bisect though it is interesting that it was accepted by the Post Office. A most intriguing and very rare cover.

UPU Appointment for Postal Director

In its centenary year, the Universal Postal Union has appointed Mr Tom Scott one of the Directors of Britain's postal service as Deputy Director-General of its International Bureau.

Mr Thomas Scott was born at East Linton, East Lothian, Scotland, in May 1920 and educated at North Berwick High School and Haddington Knox Academy. Entering the Post Office as a clerk, he worked in the Postal Operations Division until World War II, when he served in the Royal Corps of Signals in France, Belgium and the Middle East. He returned to the Post Office in 1946 and, for nearly 20 years, with only short breaks, he was to serve in positions concerned with the management and development of international postal services. As Mr Scott rose through the management ranks, he played an increasingly influential part as a UK representative at international postal meetings in Britain and overseas, including the UPU Congresses at Ottawa (1957), Vienna (1964), Tokyo (1969) and Lausanne (1974). He also accompanied Mr Edward Short, the then Postmaster General to whom he was Principal Private Secretary, on overseas visits in 1966-67. In 1968 Mr Scott, who is a fluent French speaker, was appointed Assistant Director in charge of the international mails division. Three years later he became Director, Pay and Grading, in the Postal Business.

The Universal Postal Union is one of the world's oldest inter-governmental organisations. Set up by the Berne Treaty between 22 nations in 1874, it is now a specialised agency of the United Nations, with a world-wide writ. The International Bureau, of which Mr Scott has been made Deputy Director-General, is the working heart of the UPU, planning and co-ordinating the affairs of the Union and generally promoting international collaboration in operating and developing the world's mail services.

Charges for Handstamping

Because handstamping is more expensive than normal machine cancelling we require $\frac{1}{2}p$ more than the normal postage rate on all items to be handstamped. An exception is made on the first day of issue of the Christmas stamps when covers bearing only the second class denomination Christmas stamp will be cancelled with a first day of issue handstamp. This means that stamps to at least 4p in value must be affixed to all items to be handstamped. These items will be sent forward by second class post after cancellation. If the first class postal service is required stamps to the value of 5p or more must be attached to the item.

British Special Stamps

2. Ninth UPU Congress, 1929 – The Low Values

This year the Universal Postal Union celebrates its centenary, and the postal administrations of the world – including our own British Post Office – have issued, or are issuing, stamps to commemorate the event. It is also the occasion of the 17th UPU Congress, supreme body of the Union, which opened on 22 May at the Palais de Beaulieu, Lausanne, the first time that the Congress had ever been held in Switzerland, host country of the UPU headquarters.

In my “British High Values” series (September 1973 Philatelic Bulletin), I enthused over the handsome £1 “St George and the Dragon” stamp issued for the Ninth UPU Congress held in London in May 1929, and criticised the four low value designs for their mediocrity. Since then I have found support for my views in John Easton’s book British Postage Stamp Design. Apropos John Farleigh’s designs for the $\frac{1}{2}d$ and $2\frac{1}{2}d$ stamps, Mr Easton stated that they had reverted to “the dulllest period of Victorian typography”. No doubt he was referring to the “lilac and green” issues of 1883, whereon the squares, circles, ovals and hexagonals embracing the Queen’s head formed “islands” midst substantial “seas” of blank space.

The $\frac{1}{2}d$ stamp with its outsize figures of value flanking the portrait oval appears to be bottom-heavy, while the $2\frac{1}{2}d$ “beer-bottle label” seems similarly unbalanced by having the figures of value crammed into the lower corners.

“Mr Farleigh enjoys such a high reputation nowadays as a book illustrator,” wrote Mr Easton, “particularly in recognition of the delicacy and skill which he revealed in the woodcuts which he engraved for ‘The Little Black Girl’, that one can only wish that inspiration comparable to that which he received from Mr Bernard Shaw had coloured his designs for the Ninth Postal Union Congress.”

The design by Ernest Linzell of Bradbury, Wilkinson and Company for the 1d and $1\frac{1}{2}d$ stamps – the King’s head within a formal frame, placed upon the Union Jack – was described as “of the kind that one associates with a magazine cover rather than a postage stamp”.

The four stamps were typographed by Waterlow & Sons from plates made by the Royal Mint, the dies engraved by J A C Harrison, and it is interesting to note that, although these were the last typographed “special” stamps, the formal style persisted in the first photogravure definitives of 1934. Note the similarity of the 1d and $1\frac{1}{2}d$ PUC stamps to the new 5d issue.

The $\frac{1}{2}d$, 1d and $1\frac{1}{2}d$ PUC stamps were also available in rolls and booklets, and are known with “Cancelled” and “Specimen” overprints. Miniature proof sheets of four of the 1d and $1\frac{1}{2}d$ stamps fetched £1,200 at a recent Stanley Gibbons auction sale of GB stamps.

Book Review

The Postal Service in E17

The Walthamstow Antiquarian Society have published an admirable monograph by S D Hanson on the Postal Service in Walthamstow. Using illustrations taken from the Waltham Forest Reference and Lending Library's collections and other local sources and making proper use of the Record Room at Postal Headquarters a very adequate picture has been presented of the developments of the service in the Borough from the 17th century until today. The latest picture is of the bandit protective glass screen at the new Hoe Street Office provided in 1972 in replacement of the 1933 Hoe Street Bridge Branch Office which had long been outgrown. All the Branch and Sub Post Offices in E17 are listed as are posting boxes of all types, and the times of delivery and collection since 1799 when there were three "Penny Post" deliveries.

What happened postally in Walthamstow over the years 1799 to 1972 epitomises the story of the Post Office as a whole over the same period. Using E17 as a point of reference throughout has the effect however of making it all seem so much more personal. Since the Post Office, now as then, is run by people serving the needs of people that is not a bad thing. The Supervisor at Vestry Road Sorting Office in 1903 wore his bowler hat with dignity as did the postmen their shakos.

"The Postal Service in Walthamstow", by S D Hanson. Obtainable from Vestry House Museum, London E17. Price 50p.

Churchill Centenary Special Stamp Issue

9 October 1973

On 9 October 1974 we issue four special stamps to honour one of our greatest statesmen. The issue commemorates the birth of Sir Winston Churchill and depicts different phases of his long and varied career. On the 4½p stamp he appears in the uniform of Lord Warden of the Cinque Ports to which he was appointed in 1941. The 5½p and 8p stamps show Churchill the Parliamentarian, on the former as the Prime Minister of World War II and on the latter as Secretary of State for War and Air.

On the 10p stamp he appears in the Boer War uniform of the South African Light Horse.

The stamps were designed by Collis Clements MSIA and Edward Hughes MSIA who also designed the first day cover and presentation pack. These designers were also responsible for the highly successful Royal Wedding stamps issued on 14 November last year. This is the second British stamp issue to be devoted to Sir Winston Churchill; on 8 July 1965, there was a special issue of 2 stamps, designed by Rosalinde Dease and David Gentleman, FSIA, to commemorate this great man.

Souvenir Presentation Pack

In acknowledgement of the great esteem in which Churchill is held both by the British public and peoples throughout the world, we are producing a souvenir pack. Fully illustrated and running to several pages it contains a comprehensive biography of Churchill and of course the four special stamps. These are incorporated into the pack in an unusual way, in a plastic "bubble" strip, slightly raised up from the body of the pack.

The pack will be issued with the special stamps on 9 October 1974. Designed by David Harris, FSIA, with copy by Alan Martin Harvey, it was printed in Great Britain by Moore & Matthes (Printers) Limited. It costs 50p and will be available from philatelic sales counters and the Philatelic Bureau.

The standard presentation pack will also be produced.

Postcard

A picture-card reproducing the 5½p Churchill stamp also goes on sale at philatelic counters and selected post offices on 9 October. The card – eighth in the series – is priced at 5p. This does not include postage.
